J. G. TIPTON.

Mr. Tipton was born at Fulton Co., Fairview, Illinois, Jan. 27th, 1849, and received his education at Hedding College, Abingdon, Illinois. He studied law at Bloomington, Ill., and was admitted to the Bar by the Supreme Court of Illinois in 1874. He started practice at Bloomington, and then removed to Council Bluffs, Iowa, where he practiced 10 years. He then went to Omaha, Neb., and stayed 5 years. In 1897 Mr. Tipton came to Canada, locating at Strathcona, which had at that time only 300 inhabitants. He took a homestead and improved it, pioneering for four years, after that opening an office in the real estate, fire insurance and loan business, subsequently admitting his two sons into partnership. Two years ago, through the instrumentality of the members of the Bar of Edmonton and Strathcona, Mr. Tipton was admitted to practice. He is a property holder in both city and farm lands. A year ago Mr. Tipton was appointed by the Hon. Frank Oliver to the immigration commission to assist the commissioner of Illinois.

LAND GRANTS FOR AFRICAN VETERANS

Herron's Motion Regarding Coal Lands Debated in the House

Ottawa, Dec. 10.—Sir Frederick Borden, on behalf of the Dominion Government, accepted a resolution moved by Col. Hughes in the House this afternoon that grants of Dominion land should be set apart for those who took part in the South African war of 1899-1902, residing in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta at the time of enlistment. Colonel Hughes spoke in support of the resolution, pointing to the valuable services rendered to Canada by the Canadian contingents. Mr. Lake followed in a similar strain and Mr. Turfitt also supported the resolution as well as Mr. Herron. Mr. Lefurgey put in a word for the Maritime Provinces. Sir Frederick Borden said it was the policy of the government to give these grants to the men who had served in South Africa and who at the time were living in the Provinces of Manitoba, Alberta and Saskatchewan.

Mr. Turfitt and other western members had been calling the government's attention to this important matter. The resolution was unanimously adopted. Sir Wilfrid Laurier accepted the following resolution which was also proposed by Colonel Hughes: "That in the opinion of this House the best interests of Canada and the Empire would be served by the settling in Canada of honorably discharged British soldiers and their families." This resolution was also carried unanimously. Col. Hughes also moved a resolution in favor of the payment of the railway fares of two riflemen selected as first class shots from each unit from headquarters to the Dominion rifle matches each year. As this was a departmental matter the motion was withdrawn.

Mr. Herron (S. Alberta) moved that coal lands owned by the government of Canada should only be allotted under such conditions and subject to such control and regulations as will provide for an immediate supply of coal adequate at all times to the requirements of the people. Also that provision be made for such control of lands already allotted as will in case of emergency prevent less and suffering to the people of the western provinces through lack of fuel supply. Mr. Herron wanted the government to make regulations for the western areas to prevent speculators from obtaining monopolies and charging the settlers exorbitant prices, or preventing them from getting coal at all by refusing to operate the mines. An investigation should be held to place responsibility for the Lethbridge trouble.

Mr. Sprule supported the resolution. Mr. Oliver said he had no fault to find with the speeches, but they were not in accord with the resolution.

The C. P. R. had twenty-five million acres in Alberta carrying coal rights. The Calgary and Edmonton had two million acres more of its carrying coal. The government had alienated about 200,000 acres of coal lands. All the homesteads taken prior to 1887 carried coal rights. None of these areas were subject to royalties and were open to purchase and operation by any one who desired to go into the coal mining business. There was no lack of coal lands and no danger of monopoly. Mr. Herron had complained that the government had sacrificed opportunities of obtaining revenue in parting with the coal lands for $10 an acre. Mr. Oliver said this fee was only for the surface right connected with the mining. Three or four years ago the government fixed a royalty of ten cents a ton on coal raised from lands alienated since and that meant about $700 an acre for the Dominion treasury when the land was operated. Mr. Oliver's argument was that there was plenty of coal, but there was scarcity of capital, labor and transportation facilities.

Dr. McIntyre (Strathcona) complained of advertising a condition which only existed in a small area as general in the whole west. There was no scarcity of coal in his riding, nor was there any scarcity of fuel in Northern Alberta. He thought that the difficulty arose through lack of transportation. Dr. McIntyre pointed to the "opposition" of the leader of the Opposition to the G. T. P. as one of the ways in which the Opposition hampered the settlement of such a question.

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS

In an exciting municipal contest, fought out with determination from start to finish, but marked throughout by a spirit of good feeling Nelson D. Mills yesterday defeated Alderman A. H. Richards in the mayoralty election by a majority of sixty three and won for himself the chief magistracy of the town of Strathcona for the year 1907.

Citizens were early astir and despite the cold weather an unusually large vote was polled. All the candidates for councilors worked hard and no votes that could be turned to account were allowed to go uncollected.

When the time came for the counting of the ballots the interest was keen and the candidates and their agents anxiously tallied off the votes as the ballots were read out one by one by the deputy returning officer, Mr. E. S. Bowden Smart.

From the beginning of the count it was evident that Mr. Mills had secured the majority of the votes and as the count proceeded his lead gradually increased till it had reached sixty-three.

For councilors the count was closer and the result was in some doubt till near the end when it became apparent that Messrs. Hulbert, Rankin and Crawford were the successful ones.

The result of the polling was as follows:—

For Mayor:—

N. D. Mills 250

A. H. Richards 187

For Council:—

R. A. Hulbert 203

W. E. Rankin 165

H. H. Crawford 158

H. Duncan 142

Frank Cowles 115

F. Buhner 113

Buhner 113

H. D. Clark 103

H. F. Sandeman 84

Spotted Ballots 3

The retiring councilors are Messrs. J. M. Douglas, Frank Cowles and A. H. Richards and they will be succeeded by Messrs. Hulbert, Rankin and Crawford, while Messrs. George H. Elliott, J. J. McKenna and Jno. I. McFarland remain for another year.

The first person to congratulate Mr. Mills upon his success was his opponent Mr. Richards, who thus showed the same sportsmanlike character which he showed when he placed himself on record at the recent municipal meeting for a fair and hard, but many fight with no ill will, no matter who was the successful one.

The newly elected councilors were also the recipients of many congratulations from their friends and less successful rivals of the day.

WESTERN PRESBYTERIANISM

Rev. Mr. McQueen in the course of his address in Knox church, Strathcona, on Sunday evening, handed out a few facts and figures which were of great interest to the congregation.

Presbyterianism in the Canadian Northwest from the day of "small things," to the present time. Andrew Baird, in 1851, reached the banks of the Saskatchewan as the first missionary of his church not only in the neighborhood of Edmonton, but in all the western territories.

In 1857 he was followed by Rev. D. G. McQueen, who had for his only ministerial neighbors of like faith, one at Battledore and one at Calgary. Comparing the situation of the church today, with its various well organized Presbyteries, its numerous self-sustaining organizations and flourishing mission stations, Dr. McQueen declared that no commercial proposition of any kind that had been floated in the same period could show such substantial gains and equally satisfactory returns.

Referring particularly to the circumstances of the Strathcona congregation, Dr. McQueen told how the first services eleven years ago were held in the kitchen of the Edmonton hotel, a hostelry then in course of erection. On its opening for business other quarters had to be found, and services were held for a time in part of the present station building. Then the union church building became available and from there to the Ross building. Last of all the congregation entered the present edifice in 1894.

Incoming settlers multiplied as the seasons passed, and scarcely had the new church attained the marks of continued occupancy and comfort when it was found to be inadequate in size and facilities. During the past year steps were taken towards the erection of a much larger and more convenient structure, the results of which are already to be seen in the rising walls, beside the present church building. Since the inception of this congregation 11 years ago, many ministers have served the congregation, as follows: Revs. McQueen, Arnold Peck, Dobbin, Monroe, Atkinson, Mulgoon, Dick, Yansen, Galt, Jaffray, Brown, and Plummer, the last of whom being the present incumbent, who came in October, 1900. Mr. Plummer's ministrations have been most acceptable and marked by the signs of progressive and aggressive service.

PRINCE RUPERT

Montreal Star; Mr. R. J. Varney, of Victoria, who was in this city yesterday, stated in an interview with the Star that very rapid progress was being made at Prince Rupert, the Grand Trunk Pacific terminal, and that the way is being quickly paved for the largest city which it is expected will spring up there.

"Work has been begun at Prince Rupert," he said, "and buildings are being run up just as quickly as the material can be got there. When I visited that place a few weeks back I was informed that a dozen large dwellings were to be put up at once."

Mr. Varney said that only about three hundred men were engaged in the work of surveying and clearing the town site. This was not due, however, to any scarcity in the labor supply, so much as to the lack of sufficient accommodations at the camps for larger numbers of men.

"When is it likely that the town site will be placed on the market?"

"That will hardly take place, judging from what I have seen and heard, till well into next summer, or even the fall as it would not be properly surveyed and cleared before that time and put in condition to be placed on the market."

CARD OF THANKS

To the Daily Bulletin:
I respectfully request space for insertion of the following: For a good many years I have been identified with nearly every proposition of material benefit to the town and city assisting same with my time or money, or with both.

For the past two years I have spent a large amount of time, not including council meetings; in assisting the best interests of the city. A large majority of the electors have concluded that my services are no longer required, and I accept their decision without protest; and wish to say right here that I am glad the position I coveted has fallen to Mr. Griesbach and he and the newly elected aldermen have my very best wishes. I desire to extend to the Bulletin my very best thanks for their assistance; and also Mr. Lesard for their expression of friendliness to me, also I wish to thank my acquirers, Messrs. McLeod and McKinnon for their assistance; and also Mr. Lesard for the help he gave me. I thank the electors who voted for me but am sorry that the valuable time it necessarily took to record their votes was wasted. When I entered the campaign, I thought that with the assistance of my friends I would be successful, but found before election day that it was impossible to win by my own unaided endeavors, and though I expected defeat, did not expect an avalanche. Respectfully,
T. G. BELLAMY.

THE CIVIC ELECTIONS

Alderman Griesbach was elected mayor for the coming year by a very large majority yesterday. Of the five aldermen elected three belonged to what was known as the "solid five ticket," nominated by ratepayers of the eastern section of the city on the ground that that portion had not been fairly dealt with in the past. With the exception of this sectional feeling there were no distinctive policies at issue and the contest was decided on the ordinary ground of general popularity rather than preference for any decisive principle of civic policy or administration. Alderman Griesbach has seen two years' service at the council board and should be able to distinguish himself in the broader sphere of the municipality. The five newly elected aldermen are new to civic responsibility.

A BIT OF HISTORY

The local Conservative organ has become possessed of a sudden historical inquisitiveness and demands to know why a change was made at all in the management and staff of the Edmonton post office if not in obedience to the importunities of spoilsmen so far as the management is concerned it is understood that the new postmaster was appointed for the quite sufficient reason that the former official had resigned. As for the changes in the staff so far as the Bulletin is aware these were made for the reason that the former condition of affairs had about reached the limit of toleration. If as our knowledge of contemporary suggests there was any additional reason, commendable or otherwise, it was assuredly altogether superfluous, and on the ground of public efficiency the change would have long been justified. That the present staff has not materially improved matters as yet is true, but it is also true that the amount of work they are called on to perform has doubled, probably twice. It is not, therefore, unreasonable to ask for them the consideration which was shown to their more experienced predecessors. And had those predecessors been treated by the Journal with attention of the same character and degree, it is pleased to bestow upon the present staff the public reason for the change might not have existed. Had a change of personnel been made under such circumstances the Journal might have had a shadow of reason in imputing an unjust motive; but to institute such claim before a public conversant with the conditions as they existed is to suggest to them that the present displeasure of the Journal arises far less from concern for the betterment of a public service than from the traditional office-hunger of the party to which it belongs.

MR. RILEY'S SPLENDID WIN

Mr. E. H. Riley, the Liberal candidate, was elected in Glenora on Friday by a majority of about one hundred. The by-election was made necessary by the resignation of Judge Stewart, who was elected member at the general provincial elections last fall by a majority of 15. Mr. Walsh, Mr. Riley's opponent was Conservative provincial organizer. Mr. Walsh entered the contest with vague but plentiful promises of subjecting the government to a merciless criticism which was to leave its record in tatters and its policy out of joint, and at the same time the impression was spread by the newspapers supporting him that if elected Mr. Walsh would supplant the member for High River as leader of the Opposition. This impression was endorsed by the fact that the Opposition in the person of Mr. Hiebert, Rosebud, appeared in the constituency during the campaign in support of Mr. Walsh, whom Mr. Hiebert described as "the ideal." Despite this the electors appear to have preferred a Liberal member to a possible Opposition leader, and said so in no uncertain manner. Mr. Riley's victory is the more commendable that he won on public issues. The policy and record of the Rutherford Government was his platform and it early developed that the electors were not an criticism of consequence to offer and no amendment to suggest. In electing Mr. Riley the electors of Glenora have chosen a member who knows why he supports a policy and endorses a record in preference to one who gave no evidence of knowing why he opposed the policy or condemned the record. Aside from Mr. Riley the credit of holding the contest to these issues of public concern belongs in small measure to the Calgary Albertan, which declined to follow the example of its local contemporary in sinking the campaign into puerile quibbling and personal onslaught.

Scientific American: Concurrently with the completion of the trials of the "Dreadnought" comes the news of the launching by the Japanese of a battleship, the "Satsuma," which not only exceeds the British ship in size and power, but seems to have made like that vessel an enviable record in speed of construction. Most remarkable of all is the fact that this, the world's greatest battleship, has been built entirely by the Japanese themselves. Moreover, a sister ship is under construction; and we may look at any time for the announcement that she is afloat. The "Satsuma" is given in the telegraphic dispatches, announcing the launching, as being of 19,200 tons displacement, in which case she exceeds the "Dreadnought" by fully 1,200 tons. Her horse power is announced as being 18,000, and her estimated speed is over 20 knots. One or other of these last figures must be in error; either the horse power is too small, or the speed too great. The most striking fact about this truly enormous vessel is her armament, which is to consist of four 12-inch guns carried in two turrets forward and aft on the center line and no less than twelve 45-caliber 10-inch guns, mounted in pairs in turrets on the broadside. By this arrangement the "Satsuma" can concentrate two 12's and four 10's ahead and astern, and four 12's and six 10's on each broadside. The Italian Marina Militare, a usually well informed journal, gives in its last issue drawings of this vessel, which also credit her with a battery of four 12's and twelve 10's, the latter mounted in six two-gun turrets. The Japanese, as the result of their experience in the war, have concluded that nothing less than the 4.1 inch rapid fire gun is sufficient to stop the large torpedo boats and destroyers, and consequently the "Satsuma" will carry a battery of a dozen of these pieces. In this connection it is noteworthy that this enterprising nation has four 16,000 ton 22 knot armored cruisers afloat or on the stocks, which will carry four 12-inch and eight 8-inch guns as their main battery. This gives them the same offensive power as our own battleships of the "Georgia" class, and practically places them in the battleship class. Evidently this youngest of the naval powers is determined to remain master of the Pacific.

FIGHTING THE GRAIN OCTOPIUS

(Farmers' Advocate)

If the farmers had nothing more to worry him than the production of the various articles of the farm, the farmer would be a rich lot, but the development of markets far from the source of production has brought into existence a vast horde, generally termed "middle-men." These have a place in the community, but have to be continually watched, or producers and consumers will suffer from the middleman's handling either of the products or the proceeds from the sales of those products. It would seem that the farmers south of the international boundary are in much the same predicament as the farmers of Western Canada, and therefore the experiences of each in their efforts to avoid the tentacles of octopus will be helpful to the others. Government intervention can and has done much to aid the farmers of Western Canada, e.g. the grain act, but it will yet need to be called upon to do further work for the benefit of agriculture. The words of Uncle Henry Wallace quoted below, a man who has been for years fighting the battles of Iowa farmers at no little cost to himself will be read with interest at this time:

"For the last twenty or thirty years and especially the last ten, farmers have been bending all their energies to the production of crops. They have given comparatively little attention to the question of marketing, except in the way of obtaining reductions in railroad rates. The country has now reached the stage of development when it is important not merely to grow crops, but to get the best prices for them, to get their full value."

This result cannot be reached by any such chimerical scheme as "pooling" the crop or in other words, forming a farmers' trust. Such a trust to be successful must be more than statutory, more than national. It would necessarily have to embrace farmers in all the great producing countries, especially the United States, Canada, and America. Nor can it be accomplished by holding back crops. The interests of farmers are too diversified and too widely scattered to ever permit of that. Even if crops were held back, they would still exert their influence on the market. For whenever a crop becomes available—that is, whenever grain of any kind is put in the elevator—it becomes part of the visible supply to be considered by dealers in the market.

One of the ways by which a farmer will get increased cash for his crops is by eliminating as far as possible the middleman, by selling his grain direct to the consumer.

summer. The middleman cannot be entirely eliminated, but by co-operation we can eliminate a considerable percentage. For example, we see no reason why farmers in all these grain growing states should not market their grain to a considerably greater advantage by disposing altogether with the elevator people. Elevators we must have, with their approved appliances for handling grain; but there is no reason why farmers should not own their own elevators. The fact that there is such a strong movement toward farmers' elevators, and that they have been reasonably successful even under the management of farmers inexperienced in conducting them, shows conclusively that the line elevators have been charging too much for the service they have rendered.

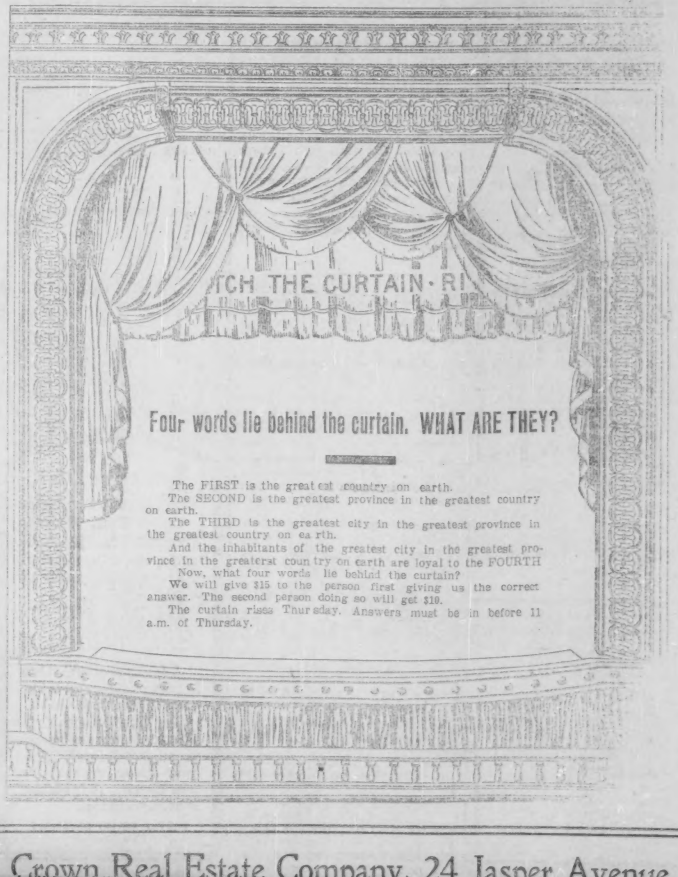

In the recent hearing in Des Moines the manager of the Neola Elevator Company which is another name for the Armour Elevator Company, along the line of the Milwaukee railroad, stated that when the farmers wanted to organize a company to own their line their elevators were for sale; that he regarded the opposition of the farmers' elevator companies as the hardest possible opposition to meet; that in the last few months he had offered four elevators to co-operative farmers' associations; that they had purchased three of them, and that they were wise in purchasing the other as it was of little value.

Here is an opportunity for the farmers along the entire Milwaukee system to take complete possession of the elevator business. There is not a community along that line where a considerable amount of grain is grown in which farmers cannot organize co-operative companies and offer a fair price for the line elevators, or build new ones for themselves.

We do not think it wise for farmers with no experience in handling grain to undertake to learn a new business. Quite a number of the witnesses at the recent hearing had been in the employ of the line elevators and the farmers had wisely hired them to conduct co-operative elevators.

Nor would we advise farmers to speculate in grain. Let them do as they are doing now—ship grain for so much a bushel. Where the farmer has a car he gets all there is in it. An intelligent operator will fill the car with the same grade of grain throughout and thus get the same advantage for the man who has less than a car load as for a car lot. Let our co-operative friends think this matter over. After hearing the testimony given before the Interstate Commerce committee it has been shown that this is the easiest and cheapest way out. The act of taking toll is an easy one but the Government should legislate to as to regulate the amount of that toll upon the farmer's labor or the products of his labor that such may be the easiest possible consent with the Government.

LAND GRANTS FOR AFRICAN VETERANS

Dr. Smith severely criticized the action of the Opposition in refusing to labor the right of combination outside Canada, as was shown by their remarks of Mackenzie King's visit to John Mitchell, while at the same time approving of the right of Americans coming into Canada to control capital and do that which brings about a conflict between capital and labor. He favored compulsory arbitration as a workman, but could not be forced down men's throats. He gave great credit to Mr. King for settling the strike. He sympathized with the union men who did not want to work with those who were not so, but he did not approve of preventing any one working who wanted to do so.

KILLED IN A RAILWAY CAMP

One Man Killed and Four Injured By An Explosion

Kenora, Ont., Dec. 10—A fatal accident happened at McFarlane's camp a mile and a half west of Renfrew this morning whereby one man was killed outright, two seriously and three slightly injured. From the statement obtained from Mr. McFarlane the accident was one of those things which happen and cannot be explained. It appears that the men had fired two holes on Saturday night and were removing the loose rock when on moving a large piece the explosion occurred. The dead man and the injured were all Austrians, whose names cannot be obtained at present. The injured were brought into town and went to the hospital, where they are being attended to.

RESCUED FROM WRECKED STEAMER

Only One Casualty Result From Disaster to the Monarch

Winnipeg, Dec. 10—Robert Crawford, manager of the Northern Navigation company, received a message from Port Arthur early this evening that the passengers of the ill fated steamer Monarch, of his line, had landed at that place at seven o'clock and all were well with the exception of a Mr. Farquhar, of Sault Ste. Marie, who had contracted a severe cold from the long exposure. The message reported only one casualty, that of J. Jacques, watchman on the destroyed vessel, who was drowned at the time of the wreck. The vessel is a complete wreck. The passengers tell of terrible hardships experienced in their long wait for a tug to take them from the bleak rocks of Isle Royale. Some thirty persons, members of the crew and passengers, were exposed for nearly thirty-six hours to the terrible gale without extra clothing, fire or food and many of them were in a weak and exhausted condition when rescued by the tug Whalen. The most remarkable feature of the wreck is the fact that although the steamer came to grief on the rocky shore of Isle Royale in a terrific gale and despite the long exposure only one death has resulted and there is no probability that the casualty list will be increased.

HAPS & COLD SORES

The condition of the skin during the cold weather has an important bearing on the general health as well as on the comfort. Sore chapped hands, cold-cracks, chilblains—all these, besides being painful and unpleasant, have a detrimental effect on the subjacent tissues. Zam-Buk is more than a mere salve. It is an antiseptic dressing composed of the best herbal essences. Applied to cracked places, chaps, sores, etc., its antiseptic properties come into immediate operation. It kills disease germs, prevents inflammation and suppuration, and then it heals. A leading chemist has proved that the antiseptic power of Zam-Buk is greater than that of crude acid, yet Zam-Buk works without pain. Its healing properties are such that even chronic sores yield to its power. Ask your friends about Zam-Buk. Better still, try it yourself. See free sample offered below.

HANDS SO SORE DARE NOT WASH.

Mrs. H. H. Rankin, of Appleton (Ont.), says—
"My hands had big cracks on them which caused me such pain I could hardly work. Whenever I tried to put them near water they would smart and burn as if I had scalded them. They did not seem to be benefited by anything I tried until Zam-Buk was introduced. To my great pleasure, within a very short time Zam-Buk closed up the cracks and healed the sore places. My hands are now white and smooth."

"I recommended Zam-Buk to a friend who had a sore finger, and it cured that, too. I think it a splendid household ointment."

Zam-Buk cures cuts, burns, bruises, ulcers, sores, abscesses, boils, ringworm, scalp sores, blood poison, etc. Rubbed in it cures rheumatism and sciatica, and rubbed on the chest eases tightness and aching due to cold. Of all druggists at 50 cents a box or from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. 6 boxes for $2.50.

Strange Subjects of the King

Illustrated London News: In North Borneo there are many tribes of natives, each with a different language, and on the coast they are nearly all of the Mohammedan religion. The Sulus, Tidongs, and Bajans, the latter well known to the large Admiral Kipper, all lived by the sea. But in the far interior is a race called the Dusuns, as distinct from the Mohammedan tribes as we are ourselves. They have no religion, and their language is quite different, their customs and habits are unknown to the coast natives, and to Europeans, except those few who have had dealings with them officially. And by the Mohammedans they are looked upon with the utmost contempt.

It would almost appear that the Dusuns are the aboriginal of North Borneo. By many it is said that this race is descended from the Chinese, who in past ages settled in large numbers on the Bornean coast. But the Dusun race of today is split up into many tribes, and though there is one common language, each tribe has dialects of its own, and these vary in a similar manner to the English county dialects. Each Dusun tribe has a legend as to its origin, one of which is that, in the beginning of all things, a party of Chinese landed in Borneo, and ascended Kibabau, a large mountain on the west coast. They were met by a tribe of natives. Coming down from the mountain they marched inland, and there met a female quite nude, with a short tail. And this woman was the mother of the Dusun race.

In the far interior is a certain Dusun tribe known as the Watangs. At the beginning of 1901 I visited this village, being the first white man they had seen there. The old chief Uman, told me the following story as to the origin of his tribe: "A woman was walking through a jungle, and a dog sat on a log of wood. The dog had long hair, sharp like needles. There were two cubs and two children were born, a boy and a girl. The woman wandered on in the jungle, and settled down at the headwaters of the Kibabangan river, taking the children with her. The dog remained behind, roving about the jungle, till one day it came to a big tree, the fruit of which consisted of bunches of all shapes and colors. Under this tree it remained, till eventually it died. Meantime, the daughter of the woman who had settled down at the Kibabangan River, gave birth to seven children; and this was the beginning of the Watang race." This is the legend exactly as it was told to me by the old chief, who appeared to be quite convinced of the truth of what he was saying.

Short, very sturdy and light-complexioned, the Dusun is a simple child of nature. He requires very little, and the few necessities he wants he can obtain with little trouble. He grows old in his own rice, and all he exchanges from coast tribes. If he wishes for meat, he can hunt and trap the wild game in the jungle. He is scarcely worried by him. A "chaw" is a little cloth is all that is necessary, but if he desires a coat, the cotton grown in his garden, the dye likewise, and in his women-folk weave the cloth. Another kind of cloth is also woven from the bark of a tree. These people are essentially farmers, and no self-supporting Dusun would be without his rice, his fowls, goats and cattle, all of which share his house, inside and out.

The entire house is made of bamboo; the pillars for the walls are also made of bamboo split down one side and opened out flat. This one I visited was about eighty feet long. Down the whole length of one side is a passage from which open out the rooms. These were about a dozen of these little cubicles, and provided with rattan furniture. On the opposite side of the platform was a raised platform, also running the entire length of the house, and on this sat the people, all employed at various occupations. Some were making the round conical hats worn by the people of these parts; some spinning and others weaving. The whole scene was like a street with the inhabitants carrying on their various trades. From the roof was suspended a miscellaneous collection of articles: spears, blow-pipes, baskets of dried herbs belonging to former enemies; baskets of gutta serena and indurubber, and coils of rattan cane. And just over the very spot from which I took the photograph was a most weird object. It was a mummy, but only half the body had been preserved. The skull, arms, and fingers were fastened on to the upper part of this body which had been cut off at the thighs and preserved in cloth. The thing was hung from the roof of the house by the back, and was suspended so as to face downward, with hands and arms outstretched. I asked the old chief Uman about it. The mummy was that of a chief who had died many years ago, who had been head of the tribe, and had been handed on from chief to chief. It was in their eyes a sort of protecting spirit, and should never be taken down unless a new house was built. They consulted it for everything they were about to undertake. An exorcism, plant a rice, trading, went to good or bad, mummy. But Uman would not let me see how they received these signs, but that they all firmly believed in it was clear by the great awe in which they spoke of it. Another gruesome story was an enormous basket of skulls hung from the roof, heads of those who had been killed in the tribal fights. They were black with age, and some must have been thirty or forty years old. Some had the skin still attached, but dried and blackened.

Speaking of tribal fights the Dusun can never get on for or forgive. An woman who has the last word goes, so with the Dusun. The last head taken by one of the tribes, is the "last word" with them. But now that the white man rules, this form of argument is dropped, though as an instance of how the old feeling will out, some time ago a deputation from one of the tribes visited my camp, and this was their trouble.

Very many years ago a tribe from the Kibabangan river had raided these very people, and had taken away several heads, gongs, and jars. This required a reply; or, in other words, a return raid. The District Officer, hearing of the trouble, ordered these Watangs to remain in their village, and also ordered the offending tribe to pay back the gongs and jars and other compensation. It appears that this was not done, and now, more than ten years after, these people still wish to have their "last word," and pay a visit to the Kibabangan River. It is quite probable that if any of the people in either village remember or know anything about the origin of the feud; but it will be handed on from generation to generation. And some day the Watangs will get their own back in own form or another. A Kibabangan man will get lost in the jungle while hunting, or a woman will go to the river for water and will never return. No matter how or when, but the Watangs will seek and obtain satisfaction. They will make their "last word" reply.

The Dusuns have no recognized form of religion. But they are superstitious to a degree. Superstition and old-time customs govern their lives. They are always on the lookout for omens, good or bad, and most of these are from birds or the jungle. A man will dream of a certain bird, or will hear it calling in the forest. It is the wrong kind of bird, and nothing will induce that man to carry out any undertaking till the right bird has been seen or heard. "Insects or payment alike will be ignored until the good omen has turned up. The Dusun have a religion that the Dusuns have in their veneration of the "Gusi." These are jars of various shapes and sizes, and they are fetich. Such a strict regard have these people for "gusi" that in 1882 the Government of North Borneo issued a proclamation for the protection of these jars, only a certain number of which are in the country. Where they originally came from it is hard to say. There are many legends about them, one of which was told me as being "true" by a very old Dusun chief.

"Long long ago, a man was walking along a river bank, when he saw a handful of stones he threw them and hit about twenty. The jars that he carried remained, but the rest all disappeared, melted away before his eyes. Those twenty remaining jars were the beginning of the "gusi." Such was the story told me by the old man, who seemed thoroughly to believe what he said.

These people have the utmost faith in the virtues of "gusi," which belong to the "gusi" inheritance. They are sent for on the occasion of marriage or funeral ceremonies, or if sickness or trouble of any kind visits a village. The Government proclamation says that "the person in whose custody the Gusi is, for the time being, shall under no circumstances whatever detain the Gusi or refuse to give it up to the next person having 'wari' who may require it, under a penalty not exceeding £20."

On one occasion I had in my possession a "gusi" belonging once to a tribe the last of whom had turned Mohammedan, and therefore refused to keep anything to do with their old gods. I took this jar up country with me for the purpose of getting information from the Dusuns, and one evening sent to a village for a man whom I knew was held in great respect by the people. I showed him my "gusi" whereupon he took it very reverently in his hands, and putting it to his ear, whispered, "Tuan, (Sir) this is a gusi. It is a female and she speaks." He was very anxious to know where I had obtained it, and when asked what he valued it at, he said, "I am a poor man, but would give $400," about $90.

How these jars came into the country it is impossible to say, but they never yet met a Dusun who would account for them in any way except that they are fetich.

GRAIN COMMISSION

The Grain Commission resumed its sittings this morning in Unity hall, Sanson block, at 10:30.

The first witness called was Mr. Thos. B. Smith, of Edmonton, who for five months last year was city weighmaster. He said the city scales were pretty accurate. Several farmers who sold their grain to the elevators here weighed before they went to the elevator, on the city scales, and generally found the city weight was the greater. He cited one case where there was a difference of four bushels. When a protest was made the elevator people allowed him the amount he was shy. Mr. Miller suggested this might have been a mistake. Mr. Smith said it happened to often to be a mistake. This happened at all the elevators in the district.

When questioned about the weights given non-English speaking farmers, he said they heretofore had sold such small quantities that they had no complaints. He never heard of any. Mr. Smith cited another case which he termed as flagrant. A farmer brought two loads of oats to the elevator. He had both weighed on the city scales. The weight given him at the elevator was 13 bushels short. He protested, but they would not rectify the discrepancy. After this incident the farmer received good weight for the rest of the grain he took to the elevator in question. The Commission wanted to know if the weight given the farmer by the elevator owners was the gross weight or the net weight. Mr. Smith was not very certain on this point. He described the method of weighing on the city scales. The load of grain and vehicle is weighed. Sometimes the farmer does not know whether this weight is the gross weight of the grain, or the gross weight minus the dockage. He then returns to the city scales and weighs his vehicle, thus obtaining the gross weight of the grain. The discrepancy complained of is in these weights. It was brought out by the examination of the Commissioners that there is no set system of marketing grain here. Sometimes there is an agreement as to dockage and again the grain is sold straight weight. A case was cited where there was a difference of four bushels in the city scales and elevator scales, and the agreement was that the grain being cleaned to grade there was to be no dockage. On the whole, however, Mr. Smith thought that some of the difference in weights was due to legitimate dockage.

He said farmers who checked the elevator weights with their own scales often complained they did not get full weight at the elevator, although city scales agreed with the farmers' scales.

The tickets the farmer gets from the elevator do not give the dockage.

As a remedy for these alleged abuses Mr. Smith suggested that all the weighing be done on a public scale and to make such weights final.

Mr. W. F. Stevens, secretary of the Central A. F. A., was called. The Commission wanted to know if there was any doubt about the quantity of oats that could be grown in Alberta that would qualify as extra No. 1 Alberta, weighing 42 lbs. and over to the measured bushel. Mr. Stevens was very emphatic and definite in his reply. He stated it would be difficult to find oats in Alberta, sound, matured, and plump that would not go more than 42 pounds to the bushel. They would test that as they left the threshing machine. When cleaned they would go much higher—to 46 and 48. The Commission wanted to know if there was a sufficient difference in the weight of the Alberta oats from Saskatchewan and Manitoba oats to warrant a separation of grades. The present standard for No. 1 oats is 38 lbs. to the bushel. The Commission wanted to know if raising the standard for all oats would suffice. Both Mr. Stevens and Mr. Warner were of the opinion that since Alberta can and does grow a superior quality and weight of oats those oats should be designated as "Alberta extra No. 1 white."

William Golley, Belmont, and Francis Clare were called upon to support these statements. Both gentlemen stated Alberta oats would easily go over 42 lbs. to the bushel. Some had gone as high as 48 and 50 lbs. Mr. Clare said that for years he had sold seed oats that went 48.

At this point an adjournment was made until 1:30 p.m.

The Commission held a short session after lunch at which the principal witness was Mr. John Melick, of Belmont, who submitted specific evidence on shortage of weights given him at the elevator compared with the weights on the city scales. Mr. Melick had the tickets from the elevator and the city weighmaster for five loads. Load No. 1 showed a shortage of 70 lbs. No. 2 50 lbs., No. 3 25 lbs., No. 4 25 lbs. in excess of city scales weight, No. 5 70 lbs. shortage. Besides the elevator weighmaster kept the odd pounds. When Mr. Melick protested, the weighmaster said: "I gave you all that was on the scale." Melick said he did not expect to be docked. He let the elevator owners clean to grade, and he received back the screenings. But weight of wheat and screenings showed the shortages referred to. He did not know whether he received all his screenings.

Mr. McNair said that the Commission had not received such discrepancies in their whole trip.

Last year Mr. Melick said that in the total crop marketed he was short 197 bushels compared with the thresher's report. This was based on the estimate of two bushels to the sack.

The Commission drew attention to the fact that the tickets given by the elevator owners were not in the legal form required by the Grain Act, which requires the gross weight and the dockage to be given on each ticket. Any irregularity in this line should be reported to C. C. Cassell.

THE NEW AGENT

(Canada.)

John Bruce Walker, who, as we stated last week, has been appointed to succeed Mr. W. T. R. Preston, as Chief Emigration Agent in London, was born in Irvine, Scotland, forty-seven years ago. When a boy he entered the service of the Caledonian Railway Company as a book-binding clerk at Upper Greenock station, and was transferred shortly afterwards to the cashier's department in the goods office at Greenock Central. From Greenock he went to Glasgow as travelling inspector for the Marine Insurance Company. In this employment he remained for about four years.

Then there came to him the call of the week, and he emigrated to Canada. In the Dominion he had a varied experience, largely in connection with the appointed editor of the Brantford Express, in which position he did yeoman service for his party,—that of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. In the election of 1902-1903, he was asked to do responsible organizing work in Brantford, and the province of Ontario generally, and so successful were his efforts, that the town and province were almost entirely won for his party. When, in 1903, Mr. H. M. Murray, Canadian Government Representative in Scotland, was transferred to Cardiff to superintend the work in Wales, Mr. Walker was offered the vacant position. This offer he accepted, and he returned to the west of Scotland, in May of that year, to one of the most responsible positions in the Canadian service in Great Britain. Canada was gaining slowly in popularity in Scotland as a field for immigration, but the great rush was to the United States.

Then, and now thoroughly exploded notion that Canada was a country of snow and ice for the greater part of the year handicapped very much the work of the Dominion representative in Scotland. Mr. Walker set himself energetically to the task of teaching the people that Canada was, above all countries, the country of the future. From his office in Glasgow he sent literature to all parts of Scotland, and all the papers began to take an interest in Canadian affairs. Always a fine platform-speaker, Mr. Walker himself lectured in the big towns, frequently to audiences that filled the largest halls, while in order to cover the country districts, far from the railway, he sent a van, well stocked with specimens of the products of Canadian farms, and with literature describing the Dominion. This van, in charge of men thoroughly conversant with the advantages and requirements of the colony, made Canada known in many rural districts, in which it had previously been only a name. The result of all this work was very soon evident in the emigration returns. The figures of immigration from Scotland direct to Canada became gradually higher and higher, until ultimately in the year ending with June last, Scotland, actually sent more emigrants to Canada than to the United States. This, to those who know the great prejudice that existed in favor of the States a few years ago, was a noteworthy achievement for which the lion's share of the credit was due to Mr. Walker.

Mr. Walker, it should be added, does not encourage indiscriminate emigration. Neither did he send emigrants out with mistaken ideas as to what awaited them. He made a point of carefully selecting his men, and encouraging only those who were likely to be successful in the new country. For clerical, and professional men he had no encouragement whatever, and even to tradesmen he had very little to say unless they proposed to go "on the land." Farmers and farm laborers he always welcomed, advised and assisted in every possible way. At the same time he minimized the difficulties that lay before them in Canada. This probably explains the very small percentage of Scottish emigrants who fail to become successful.

Mr. Walker is an enthusiastic Scotoman, as well as an enthusiastic Canadian. He was, and still is, a football enthusiast. He graduated from the Renfrewshire Football Association, of which he was president, and was a member of the first committee chosen by the Scottish Football Association to select an international team to play against England. A Liberal in politics, he is at the same time a strong believer in the fiscal policy of Mr. Chamberlain. He was formerly a leading member of Greenock Burns Club—the oldest Burns club in the world—and was present at its last anniversary dinner. He was a regular contributor to the Glasgow papers, dealing specially with athletic subjects, and he was editor of the Renfrewshire athlete, published in Paisley. This apprenticeship to journalism stood him in good stead when he went to Canada, and, with his ability as a speaker, helped to make him an ideal representative of the Dominion in his native country.

Count Campana Heard From.

"Count" Campana of the Detroit Americans is the latest baseball magnate to be heard from by the Canadian promoters of the Alberta League. Campana is one of the most widely-known baseball men in the continent. He writes "Leisure" while in ask how the baseball outlook for the Alberta league next year and what the prospects would be for selling a few players up this way. He says he has two pretty good men on his hands just now that he will not have room for next spring, and he offers to sell them to Edmonton at a figure that could be reached by the local team. He thinks that as they were good enough to play in Detroit last year they might be able to make good in Edmonton.

THE CHRISTMAS ROD AND GUN

Earlier among the Christmas merriments was a new colored frontispiece and illustrations that are really beautiful, come the December issue of "Rod and Gun" and Motor Sports in Canada, published by W. J. Taylor, at Woodstock, Ont. With every story a clever one, that are several that have distinct force. No sportsman can fail to experience thrills as he reads of explorers who were lost in the Canadian woods only a few weeks ago. This story of a strenuous trip is told in vivid language by Mr. J. H. Russell. Christmas stories are in evidence while not too intrusive, and the stories of a first Christmas in the Canadian Rockies when, owing to an accident, the Christmas dinner had to be adjourned till midnight; and a Christmas Hunting Trip which nearly ended in a Christmas tragedy; are not only interesting, but convey morals to every sportsman. The five minutes' dream of a Nature Student on Christmas Eve, the story of an Indian vengeance and its result told in fine verse, and a ladies' exploring trip into stopped from going to the "furthest north" for white women by the fact that the broad Saskatchewan was in flood, told in the brightest vein by Miss Tux, present, with the many other stories, a mine of good things which not merely the sportsman but the whole family circle may enjoy. A wide range is covered in this number, and all the departments are as interesting as usual; while the whole number demonstrates the high place this publication has taken throughout Canada, and worthily maintains the prestige of the Dominion in the many parts of the world to which it now penetrates.

VERMILION

Vermilion, Dec. 6.—A concert was given in Craig's Hall last evening under the auspices of the Canadian Order of Foresters, but owing to the excessive coldness of the weather, it was poorly attended. The International Entertainers were very good indeed, and those who turned out to hear them enjoyed the whole program well. We like to see some better arrangements made in future for heating the hall as the artists must have suffered considerably from the cold.

The Church of England ladies proposed holding a social in Craig's hall on Tuesday next, in aid of the church funds. This last one given by them was a great success, and we hope that this will be equally well attended.

A FRIEND OF STEVENSON.

The engagement of Anna Ide, daughter of the governor general of the Philippines, and Bourke-Cochrane, the Irish-American orator and statesman, has a peculiar interest for lovers of Robert Louis Stevenson, for, as a child, Miss Ide was a great friend of the beloved writer, and it was to her that he dedicated his birthday. Years ago Judge Ide, then a prominent lawyer of Vermont, was appointed the American justice at Sumo, and it fell that the steamer which took him and his daughters to the post had Stevenson as a passenger. Stevenson took a great fancy to the children, and particularly to Miss Anna, and they were his constant companions on the wonderful journey down through the tropic sea. Stevenson charmed the children with wonderful tales of the Southern seas, and particularly of the Southern Cross, and one night, when they had crossed the equator, took them on deck and showed them the cross.

Arrived at Samoa, Stevenson, charmed by his two young friends, volunteered to become their teacher, and this happy relationship lasted for several years. It happened that Anna Ide was born on Christmas day, an unhappy date that limited the number of presents she received in a year by fifty per cent. When she told Stevenson of this misfortune, he cried, and Stevenson, taking her in his arms, promised to provide her with a birthday. He drew a quantity

WHO COMES TO CANADA

All but the Englishman Says a London Paper

"Who Goes to Canada?" is the title of an article appearing in a recent issue of T.P.'s Weekly of England. The writer, C. W. Dawson, speaks of being in Winnipeg, and apparently writes from the standpoint of one who has considered conditions in the Canadian West. He says:

"Canada is a very strange land, full of surprises and unaccustomed modes of life. We, who have been brought up in the old country, have come to think that romance is only possible in a land where things are ancient and men can trace their forefathers back through the centuries. A trip through the northwest prairie soon makes one realize that an equal share of romance belongs to nations in the making.

Everyone you meet has some fine plan about by which he hopes to make his fortune and can tell you stories by the hour of men who started as penniless emigrants a few years back, and who today hold influential public positions. There is a spirit of quiet optimism in the air which is very contagious every body believes in the future of the Dominion and in his own capacity to make it magnificent. Here are men and women of all kinds and sorts, with all kinds of histories at the back of them—gloomy and otherwise—doing all that they can to improve their present with the certainty of a golden future before them.

The man who lives in Winnipeg and writes home to his people that he cannot find employment must be either very blind or very untruthful for the employment of labor are at their wit's end to know where to get men to carry out the projects which are already under way. Where ever you go there are signs up announcing that men are wanted for immediate engagement. The manager of the Canadian Northern Railway in speaking to me said: 'If 2,000 men were to apply for work to-day I would employ every one of them and the lowest wages I would pay would be $1.50 (45c) per day. The ocean at the present time is too great Northern Railway proposed to construct seven hundred miles of railroad next summer, and the only thing which will hinder them from doing so will be the lack of men. The Canadian Pacific is at present engaged in fitting out new lines all over the country, but they are handicapped in the same way. They can't get the men.' He went on to say how impatient it made him feel when he was in London last year to hear so much about the unemployment problem when he knew Canada could pay anything from 6s a day upwards to every man no matter how unskilled he might be who would trouble himself to cross the ocean at the present time. There are engaging men of inferior physique who cannot stand the strain of hard work and paying them high wages because they cannot get anything better, while great strapping fellows are content to starve in London rather than cross the water.

Men from the southern parts of Russia, men from the east, men from France, Germany and Holland have the enterprise to come to a land with whose tongue they are unfamiliar, the men of the empire's metropolises prefer to cross the streets for chance offerings rather than cross a few thousand miles of sea. I have travelled for days together through country which equals for beauty anything in Yorkshire or the Lake district, and which for fertility much surpasses it, and yet it is empty. There are Russians and Poles, and men from every corner of the world in plenty building their houses and raising magnificent crops; but the Englishmen are conspicuously absent. Wherever I go whether it be to the Hudson's Bay outpost up the Nelson river to lumber camps in British Columbia or to farms in Alberta, I find men impressed and taking advantage of the greatest opportunity which England has ever had, yet comparatively few of them are English.

If the excuse be made that the life is monotonous, I can only say that the people who are living it do not find it so. They shoot and fish, and arm their land for seven months in the year, that is from when they are free to work in the lumber camps, or upon the railways, or to change their mode of living by going to town. Nowhere have I warded deed, leaving to the child his name Louis and his birthday. The girl took the additional name of Leuisa, and ever since has kept the day—latterly more as a sad memorial to the dear dead friend than a time of joy. Miss Ide is one of the most beautiful women in America, and her beauty is enhanced by charm of manner and splendid character.

SOCIAL.

Mrs. Park, 638 Fifth street, will receive again until after Christmas.

Mrs. W. B. Chown, 625 Seventh street, will receive on Thursday afternoon, Dec. 13th.

Miss Robertson, of Edmonton, who is visiting Senator and Mrs. Watson, Portage la Prairie, was the guest of honor at an enjoyable dance for young people given last week by Mrs. Watson. Miss Robertson wore an attractive gown of pale blue silk and gandy, trimmed with ruffles of silk and bands of guipure lace.

At a large tea given in Ottawa by Mrs. James Mills in honor of Mrs. Robertson, of High River, a few of the guests were Mrs. Oliver, Mrs. Burden, Mrs. Sifton, Mrs. Philip Roy (Edmonton), Mrs. Coffey (London), Mrs. Roberts-Allen and Miss Taylor of Edmonton. Mrs. Blaylock of Calgary, daughter of the hostess, and Miss Dora Oliver were among those who assisted in looking after the comfort of the guests.

ward a word of complaint; everyone is happy and hopeful. When I think of the man whom I have seen asleep along the embankment and the poor starving women and children who have marched up from the East End begging for alms during the winter in London, I cannot but wonder whether the fine old spirit of adventure which made our Raleighs, our Blakes and our Nelsons has not died out of the country which produced them. No man who has travelled through this country can fail to see that the whole west offers at present the biggest opportunity for individual enterprise that Britain has ever had. The Russian, German and Swede see it, and why not the English?

HORSE DASHES THROUGH WINDOW.

A horse belonging to T. Owens, hitched to a cutter, was being driven along Jasper avenue this afternoon about 4 o'clock. Coming to a pitch-hole in the gravel, the horse, who was in the hands of the driver, McDougall street, the cutter pitched and struck the horse on the heels. He began kicking, and freed himself from the cutter. He ran down the street, and through the window of C. E. McManus, beside the 99 Cent Store. The counter, typewriter and stove were thrown. The frightened animal turned around and dashed across the street, broke the window in the office of Crafts and Lee. When last seen the horse was galloping up the street with the shaft dangling in the air. No one was in McManus' office at the time. The plate glass window was completely demolished.

SECRETARY-TREASURER WAS #### WRONGLY REPORTED

In the Bulletin story of the voting yesterday the cause of the delay at the central polling station yesterday morning was attributed to the non-arrival of the secretary-treasurer at the city hall in time to sign some papers. The secretary-treasurer announces that was not the cause of the delay, at all, but that it was because the returning officer did not have a polling book, a matter which was none of the secretary-treasurer's business. The correction is made in justice to the secretary-treasurer.
